FRINGE BLURB GOOD TIMES

Good God, can you identify the 2019 Fringe showmen from their blurbs?

1. 'I reiterate my request for a full refund and look forward to your theatre's explanation [for] why you chose to market this show as suitable for 16-year-olds' (Audience review).
2. Let the beaky boy from Friday Night Dinner (Channel 4) and Plebs (ITV2) tell you the story of how he spent his life trying to avenge the theft of his foreskin.
3. You can't say anything anymore. Except you can. Join 'a top class comic' (Birmingham Mail) shouting 'Fire!' in a crowded theatre. Tour support for Paul Sinha and Gary Delaney.
4. The fourth show from the only winner of two Edinburgh Comedy Awards.
5. Star of Comedy Central's Roast Battle, and ultra-privileged Tower of London resident, lifts the controversial lid on the all-boys boarding school environment.
6. May be about observing the traditions that give life shape and meaning, or possibly just an ill-advised attempt to lose weight by eating only olive oil and balsamic vinegar.
7. One of the UK's foremost political satirists. Exodus is his eighth solo stand-up show. 'Prepare for all your internal organs to burst with laughter' (Independent).
8. Melbourne International Comedy Festival Best Show nominee 2017. Listen, I like you, I'll come out and use the dirty word: this is a mime show.
9. The boy from Mock the Week, Roast Battle and Hertfordshire returns. I'm not being hyperbolic when I, the editor of this brochure, tell you he is my favourite comedian in the world.
10. Having played Daddy Pig in Peppa Pig, when he became a dad there was only one expert to turn to for parenting advice. Jewish Comedian of the Year.

Bonus knowledge: All share names with the Apostles. (Answer #10 does TWICE.)
